AT FRANKFORT

Some of the Work Done in the Legislature This Week.

The Senate repealed the revenue agents' bill, a measure that turned several hundred thousand dollars of omitted taxes into the treasury.

Herman Newcomb's bill to substitute electrocution for hanging in the State of Kentucky passed the Senate yesterday. Senator Newcomb's bill to provide a penalty for those responsible for indigent children was also passed by the upper branch of the Legislature.

The bill to increase the salaries of circuit judges $1,200 a year and require them to act as special judges when called on, passed the house by 56 to 27.

Tribute to a Dead Comrade

Mr. T. M. Brodie, who died at his residence near Church Hill at half past 2 o'clock, a. m., Thursday, Feb. 10, 1910.

It is not of the exalted christian character of this man that I would write, nor is it citizenship, or love for his friends that I would note, those facts are too well known to require attention at my hands. It is as a comrade, an ex Confederate soldier, that I would like to write of this gentle character, modest, unassuming, gentle almost to timidity, this incomparable man possessed the courage that has ever characterized the Confederate soldier.

At the first sound of hostile guns that passed over the South, this man, then a boy in his teens, was one among the first to enlist in the cause of his country, receiving his baptism of fire at the battle of Fort Donelson. It was upon this ghastly battlefield that he, with his command, was surrendered to overwhelming odds by that great warrior and statesman, Simon Bolivar Buckner.

After a brief stay in one of the northern prisons Mr. Brodie, with his regiment, the 50th Tenn., was exchanged and again assigned to duty, participating in all of the important battles of the Western Army. His brigade and regiment participated in the battles of Chickamauga, Missionary Ridge and in fact through out the campaign in battles fought in Tennessee and Georgia.

What greater tribute could be paid to a dead comrade than to say the love of duty, as well as of country, made him conspicuous. It was such characters as Mr. Brodie that made the greatness of Robt. E. Lee possible and enabled Stonewall Jackson to sweep the Valley of Virginia of three great armies.

Dying as he had lived, utterly fearless, not the quiver of a muscle, not the slightest manifestation of fear as the hideousness of death flitted about him, he passed out of this life as serenely as an infant asleep in its mother's arms.

The chasm has been crossed, he is upon the other side, with his comrades who have gone before.

W. WILLIAMS.

FAIRVIEW LETTER

C. B. Brewer, Correspondent

There were several Valentine parties in this section Monday night. Mrs. Vera Arnold entertained her Sunday-school class at her home near the city, and Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Wade gave one in honor of Miss Mamie Carroll. Games of various kinds were indulged in, and refreshments were served, consisting of cake and ice cream, and a very nice time was had by those present.

There is a great deal of sickness in this section, but none of a serious nature that we have heard of.

As our readers will remember, we had some of the "beautiful" here all day last Friday, and it was not very much appreciated either.

Mrs. J. W. Hurt fell last Friday afternoon at her home in this city and broke her left arm. She is resting easy at this writing.

Mr. Bradley Johnson has bought the vacant lot belonging to Ed Quisenberry on Main street. He has not decided whether he will sell, or build a residence on it.

There will be preaching at the Baptist church here Sunday by the pastor, Rev. Goodman.

Mr. John D. McAlpin, aged forty-five, died at his home on the Butler road last Thursday of consumption, and was buried Saturday at Allegree. He leaves a wife.

Mr. J. W. Petrie is able to be out after several weeks' confinement to his room and bed.

Tuesday will be George Washington's Birthday, and we will have no mail.

Mrs. Pink Powell, who lives near Pilot Rock, died last Friday of paralysis. She was 87 years old.

Miss Ella Everett is visiting relatives near Hopkinsville.

Charles, the oldest son of Dr. W. S. Petrie, of this city, will leave Friday for Paducah, where he goes as a representative of the Pembroke High School to take part in the Western Kentucky oratorical contest.

Born to the wife of Leslie Sergeant of this place, Wednesday morning, a fine boy. All's well.

The rain and sleet Wednesday night "froz" out the oyster supper at the school house.

Forest Duncan and R. C. West, of Hopkinsville, were in the community buying tobacco Wednesday.

PEDLEY & BURCH.

Henderson Theatre Firm Are Branching Out.

Owensboro, Ky., Feb. 16.—The Park theatre was sold by the master commissioner Monday afternoon to the Henderson National Bank for $17,000. The sale includes the lot; building and furnishings of the theatre, on which an indebtedness of $16,600.16 is outstanding.

The property, bought in by the bank, which is its chief creditor, is to be taken over by Pedley & Burch, of this city, who will remodel the building at an early date and will operate it in the future.

In the firm of Pedley & Burch, J. G. Wells owns a third interest.

The Henderson circuit court will take action on the sale in the next few days.

Pedley & Burch already have a vaudeville theatre in Henderson and are making arrangements to erect an air dome and vaudeville house in Hopkinsville.—Owensboro Messenger.

TOBACCO CASES.

Government Will Proceed Against Individuals.

Cincinnati, Feb. 16.—The gathering in Cincinnati of half a dozen Federal secret service agents, who have been working up the Kentucky tobacco cases for the Government, has started a report that the Government is ready to proceed and that a special grand jury will be called to meet in Covington, Ky., soon to take up the matter.

The understanding is that the Government has abandoned its plan of proceeding against the Burley Society under the Sherman anti-trust act and that the proceedings will be directed against individuals, who, in the opinion of the Government agents, investigation has shown to be amenable to the law.
